Jake Webster is a sculptor, mixed media artist and spoken word performer. His work speaks about his community and the environment in which he lives. He uses the tradition of direct carving and applies a contemporary attitude by creating art with whatever is at hand to tell his story.

Jake is co-owner of and curator for Artpost in South Bend, Indiana, a gallery and performance space that specializes in regional contemporary and folk art (www.artpostblog.com). His studio is located in Elkhart, Indiana and is open to the public by appointment.
